Camp builds confidence in girls through coding

Empower. A local tech camp targets teen girls to address the lack of women in the country's IT sector.

In just five years, there will be 1.5 million new computing job openings in America, according to estimates from the U.S. Department of Labor. But if current student enrollment trends persist, the industry will only be able to fill half of those jobs with candidates who have computer science bachelor's degrees at the nation's universities.

The numbers are even more dismal when it comes to female workers in information technology. That's why software and marketing guru Tracey Welson-Rossman three years ago founded local nonprofit TechGirlz, which yesterday opened its second annual entrepreneurship day camp targeting technologically inclined girls ages 11 to 15.

"What research has found, and what we've found anecdotally, is that around ninth grade, girls are self-selecting out of choosing technology careers because they think the tech field is for geeks and nerds, that it's not creative, it's not collaborative, that it's not fun," Welson-Rossman said.

"We just started thinking, 'How do we change this?' So I gathered a group of advisers and we said, 'Well, if ninth grade is when they're opting out, we need to get them in middle school.'"

TechGirlz's weeklong, hands-on workshop not only unites like-minded students at a critical age and provides them with female role models, but also frames technology in a way that may be more appealing to young women.

"The men I work with, they tinker," Welson-Rossman said. "They're much more willing to try things and play with it for the sake of seeing what's out there."

She's found women, generally, seem to be more motivated by the end product rather than the process. "Technology is a way to get them there," she said. "And once they can figure out how to use technology to get where they want to go, that's when the light bulb goes off."

Nineteen participants will learn to conduct consumer research surveys, assemble marketing plans and communicate with code developers. "The last piece of it is putting together presentations for what we like to call 'the dolphin pool,'" Welson-Rossman said. "We have four entrepreneurs who will be looking to acquire their companies."

Figuratively, of course.

"This isn't about winning or losing," Welson-Rossman said. "The idea is that they're coming out of here feeling empowered and confident."

The lessons campers learn aren't confined to the tech sector. "So many people say, 'OK, you want them to become an IT coder, a developer?'" Welson-Rossman said. "I'm like, 'We want them to be women who are confident in their ability to use technology to further their careers.'"

Unearthed. Body found in Northeast Philly sanitation yard

Someone stumbled on the body of an unknown man yesterday afternoon at a Streets Department sanitation yard in Northeast Philadelphia.

Police said the gruesome discovery was made shortly before noon at the facility on State Road near Ashburner Street.

Investigators believe the man was in his mid- to late 60s, but were unable to determine his name, race or any other identifying features.

The body will be turned over to the medical examiner, who will attempt to identify the man and determine a cause of death.

SPCA: Philly hoarder 'one of worst cases'

Cruelty. Gruesome smells tipped off a hoarder's paradise.

An unconscious man, four dead cats and three alive cats were found in a Bustleton home Sunday night as officials with the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals dug through debris and animal waste.

"This is probably one of the worst cases we've ever seen. We say that a lot, but this one really has risen to the top," said Wendy Marano, PSPCA spokeswoman.

Marano said the home, on the 9100 block of Bickley Street, was also crawling with vermin, including rats, mice and bats.

"The house is collapsing," she added.

The interior of the single-family residence featured partially collapsed ceilings and deteriorated drywall.

Dozens of animal food dishes were found scattered throughout the home, which leads investigators to believe more animals are in the house.

"There's a million places for these animals to hide," she added. "These are frightened animals."

Once work crews can "get a handle on killing fleas, we can set some traps," Marano added.

Quoted

"We think there are dozens of animals living in the house."
Marano

Fire officials found a 79-year-old man unconscious inside the home. He was taken to Nazareth Hospital for treatment. His condition is unknown.

The SPCA has not filed any charges against the man, who is believed to have lived alone.

Summer is peak season for SPCA investigations into animal overcrowding, Marano said, since the smell is stronger. METRO

Public gets Free TV with no monthly bills

Federal law makes TV network giants broadcast Free TV signals regionally in crystal clear digital picture in all 50 states allowing U.S. households to pull in Free TV with a sleek $49 micro antenna device engineered to pull in nothing but Free TV channels with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills

Who Gets Free TV: Listed below are the Philadelphia area zip codes that can get Free over the air TV channels. If you find the first two digits of your zip code immediately call: 1-888-752-7147

PENNSYLVANIA - Today's announcement by CompTek has the Free TV Hotlines ringing off the hook.

That's because Philadelphia area residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication are getting Free TV channels thanks to an amazing razor-thin invention called Clear-Cast®.

Philadelphia area residents who call the Toll Free Hotlines before the 48-hour order deadline to get Clear-Cast can pull in Free TV channels with crystal clear digital picture and no monthly bills.

This announcement is being so widely advertised because a U.S. Federal law makes TV broadcasters transmit their signals in digital format, which allows everyone to receive these over-the-air digital signals for free with no monthly bills.

Here's how it works. Clear-Cast, the sleek micro antenna device with advanced technology links up directly to pull in the Free TV signals being broadcast in your area with crystal clear digital picture and no monthly bills.

Clear-Cast was invented by a renowned NASA Space Technology Hall of Fame scientist who currently holds 23 U.S. Gov't issued patents. For the past 20 years, he has specialized in developing antenna systems for NASA, Motorola, XM Satellite Radio and companies around the world.

His latest patent-pending invention, Clear-Cast, is a sleek micro antenna device engineered to pull in the Free TV signals through advanced technology with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills.

"Clear-Cast is being released to the general public because we just don't think people should keep paying for TV when they can get it for free," said Conrad Miller, Manager of Operations at CompTek.

"There's never a monthly bill to pay and all the channels you get with Clear-Cast are absolutely free. So you see, Clear-Cast is not like cable or satellite. It was engineered to access solely the over-the-air signals that include all the top rated national and regional networks, like ABC, NBC, CBS, FOX, PBS, CW and about 90% of the most watched TV shows like America's Got Talent, NCIS, 60 Minutes, American Idol, The Big Bang Theory, The Bachelorette, Person of Interest, CSI, The Mentalist, Two and a Half Men, Sunday Night Football plus news, weather and more all for free with no monthly bills," Miller said.

"That's why Clear-Cast is such a great alternative for everyone who is sick and tired of paying expensive cable and satellite bills every month," he said.

"People who get Clear-Cast will say it feels like getting an extra paycheck every month. You see, with Clear-Cast you'll receive free over-the-air broadcast channels with crystal clear digital picture, not the cable or satellite only channels. So being able to eliminate those channels puts all the money you were spending back in your pocket every month," Miller said.

And here's the best part. The sleek micro antenna device called Clear-Cast is so technically advanced it pulls in even more of the channels being broadcast in your area for Free with no monthly bills.

That way you can channel surf through the favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels you'll get depends on where you live. People living in large metropolitan areas may get up to 53 static-free channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even if you're in a rural area that just pulls in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts there's hundreds of shows each year to watch for free.

Consumers report that the crystal clear picture quality with Clear-Cast is the best they've ever seen. That's because you get virtually all pure uncompressed signals direct from the broadcasters for free.

Clear-Cast was engineered to link up directly like a huge outdoor directional antenna but in a lightweight, slim-line package. Its sturdy copper alloy and polymer construction will most likely far outlast your TV.

It just couldn't be any easier to get Free over-the-air digital TV shows with Clear-Cast. Simply plug it into your TV, place Clear-Cast on a window pane and run autoscan. It works on virtually any model TV and is easily hidden out of sight behind a curtain or window treatment.

Thousands of Philadelphia area residents are expected to call to get Clear-Cast because it just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get hundreds of shows absolutely free.

So, Philadelphia area residents lucky enough to find their zip code listed in today's publication need to immediately call the Free TV Hotline before the 48-hour deadline to get Clear-Cast that pulls in Free TV with crystal clear digital picture. If lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. ■

■ NEVER PAY A BILL AGAIN: Pennsylvanians will be on the lookout for their postal carrier because thousands of Clear-Casts will soon be delivered to lucky Philadelphia area residents who beat the 48-hour order deadline and live in any of the zip code areas listed below. Everyone is getting Clear-Cast because it pulls in nothing but Free TV channels with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills.

How to get Free TV: Listed below are the Philadelphia area zip codes that can get Free TV channels with no monthly bills. If you find the first two digits of your zip code immediately call 1-888-752-7147 beginning at precisely 8:30am this morning. Today's announcement photo above shows just a handful of the major over-the-air broadcast networks you can receive with Clear-Cast for free. It saves a ton of money by not picking up expensive cable only channels like ESPN so there's never a monthly bill. This is all possible because a U.S. Federal Law makes TV broadcasters transmit their signals in digital format, which allows everyone to use Clear-Cast to pull in Free TV channels with no monthly bills. CompTek is giving every U.S. household a 50% off discount to help cover the cost of Clear-Cast. Clear-Cast, the sleek micro antenna device is a one-time purchase that plugs in to your TV to pull in Free TV channels in crystal clear digital picture with no monthly bills. Each Clear-Cast normally costs $98, but U.S. households who beat the 48-hour deadline are authorized to get a 50% off discount for each Clear-Cast and cover just $49 and shipping as long as they call the Free TV Hotline at 1-888-752-7147 before the deadline ends or online at www.clear-cast.com. Teenagers steal wheelchair off man's front lawn

Joyride. A few Delaware County teens were seen riding it around the neighborhood, police said.

Teenagers in Upper Darby yesterday stole a wheelchair that was in front of a paraplegic man's house and took it for a spin, officials said.

Andrew Hinson, of the 7000 block of Clinton Road, called police around noon to report the missing device, said Upper Darby Police Superintendent Michael Chitwood. Two detectives interviewed neighbors and found that some residents saw a few kids riding the wheelchair around the neighborhood.

Later in the day, the detectives found the wheelchair on the 7000 block of Radbourne Road, a few blocks away.

"It wasn't damaged," Chitwood said. "[Hinson] was reunited with his wheelchair."

But Chitwood said the heartwarming part was that multiple people reached out to Upper Darby police offering to buy the man a new wheelchair before they found out it had been returned.

"I personally got three calls," Chitwood said.

However, Chitwood warned that residents should not leave expensive items outside.

"In this day and age," he said, "you can't leave anything out in public. The more valuable it is, the more likely it could be stolen."

Quoted

"In this day and age, you can't leave anything out in public." Chitwood

There have been no charges filed at this time, but the investigation is ongoing, Chitwood said. It's probably just a case, he added, of "kids being juvenile delinquents."

"But the best thing is it's back and [Hinson] is happy it's back," Chitwood said.

A Philadelphia detective fired his weapon at three suspects as they beat their carjacking victim outside the driver's SUV on the 5100 block of Rubicam Street yesterday, reports say.

The carjacking suspects may have mistaken the victim for a taxicab driver after seeing him drop off his girlfriend. The men forced the victim to drive the SUV for nearly three miles as they beat him. The detective fired his weapon when one of the men pointed a gun.

Fatalities. Death toll rises in Canadian runaway train blast

The death toll in Quebec's oil train disaster jumped to 13 people yesterday and police said about 37 more people were missing, a sign the derailment and explosion could be the worst accident in Canada since the Swissair crash of 1998.

Police estimated a total of around 50 people were either dead or missing after the blast destroyed dozens of buildings in the center of Lac-Megantic early Saturday. Previously, they had said five people were dead and 40 missing. REUTERS

Brakes disabled by firefighters

Air brakes that would have prevented the disaster failed because they were powered by an engine that was shut down by firefighters as they dealt with a fire probably caused by a fuel or oil line break in the engine shortly before the incident, the head of the railway said yesterday. REUTERS

Asiana jet's slow approach probed for clues to crash

Landing. The impact flung rocks hundreds of feet down the runway and tore off parts of the plane.

The Asiana Airlines Boeing 777 that crashed Saturday while landing at San Francisco international airport had slowed to almost 40 miles an hour below its target speed before hitting a seawall short of the runway, a federal investigator said yesterday.

Crash investigators said they don't yet know why the plane was moving so slowly that it was on the verge of losing lift, or whether a pilot with only 43 hours of experience flying that aircraft type was at the controls. All but two of the 307 people on board survived.

Investigators expect to learn more when they interview the four pilots — two of whom were flying the plane when it crashed and two who provided relief on the flight from Seoul, National Transportation Safety Board Chairman Debbie Hersman said in a briefing yesterday. She declined to say which pilot was at the controls when the plane crashed.

While the plane didn't make any unusual drops or turns as it flew across the bay toward the runway, its speed fell to dangerous levels as it got lower, Hersman said, citing preliminary information from crash-proof recorders. The pilot flying the plane turned off the autopilot at 1,600 feet altitude 82 seconds before the crash, she said. At 1,400 feet altitude a few seconds later, the plane was flying at 196 mph, she said. BLOOMBERG

Crash pilot was in 777 training

The pilot was still in training for the Boeing 777 when he attempted to land the plane under supervision Saturday, the South Korean airline said.

Lee Kang-kuk was the second most junior pilot of four on board the Asiana Airlines plane. He had 43 hours of experience flying the long-range jet, the airline said. It was Lee's first attempt to land a 777 at San Francisco airport, although he had flown there 29 times previously on other types of aircraft. REUTERS

You Don't Have to Live With
Varicose Veins

Eliminate painful, unsightly varicose veins, skin changes or even ulcers with Endovenous Laser Therapy (EVLT).

Advantages of Endovenous Laser Therapy (EVLT):

- Relief of Symptoms and leg pain • Short procedure (15 minutes)
- No surgery • No down time • No general anesthesia
- No hospitalization required. The procedure is performed at our clinic
- Resumption of normal activities right away
- Covered by Medicare and most insurance plans

Do Not Postpone Treatment

Varicose veins can start out as a seemingly small problem, but left untreated, can become much more serious. Complications of varicose veins may include ulcers. These may form on the skin near the affected veins, particularly near the ankles.

They are caused by fluid build-up in the dysfunctional veins and can be extremely painful.

Dysfunctional veins can also increase the risk of blood clots. Patients may experience a swelling in the leg, which may indicate a blood clot. Left untreated, these clots can travel through the bloodstream and lodge near the heart or lungs, causing potentially life-threatening health problems.

In-vitro fertilization.
Doctors develop $260 test-tube baby system

Belgian doctors have developed a low-cost version of test-tube baby technology for use in developing countries, where sophisticated Western systems are unaffordable for most.

The researchers said their simplified process cost around $260 per cycle of treatment and delivered results that were not much different to those seen with conventional in-vitro fertilization program.

The price is just 10 to 15 percent of the current cost of Western-style IVF and suggests infertility care could one day become universally accessible, Elke Klerkx from the Genk Institute for Fertility Technology told a medical meeting.

"Infertility care is probably the most neglected healthcare problem of developing countries, affecting more than 2 million couples, according to the World Health Organization," Klerkx said.

In order to slash the price, Klerkx and her colleagues used an embryo culture method that removes the need for much of the expensive laboratory equipment found in European or North American IVF clinics. REUTERS

Ease into outdoor fitness on sultry summer days

Steamy fitness.
Embrace the heat now to get used to hot exercise all summer long.

Can't take the heat?

Fitness experts say one way for outdoor exercisers who dread the long, hot summer days of steamy runs and breathless aerobics during a heat wave is to embrace it.

"It takes most healthy people 10 to 14 days to fully acclimate to exercising in the heat," said Dr. Cedric X. Bryant, chief science officer of the American Council on Exercise. "In order to achieve that you need to be exercising in heat."

The heat-acclimated individual will sweat sooner and that sweat will be more diluted, Bryant said. There will be a lower risk for dehydration and a reduction in the heat gained through exercise that will help maintain a lower core temperature and heart rate response.

A 2011 report from the Centers for Disease Control showed that about 6,000 people a year seek emergency treatment for heat illnesses suffered while playing sports or participating in other recreational activities outdoors.

While acclimating to the physiological demands of the heat, Bryant said, be sure to tone down your workout. REUTERS

Dr. Cedric X. Bryant said as much as 25 percent of the healthy population is estimated to be heat intolerant in an unacclimated state. Once they get acclimated that drops to 2 percent.

Head shape

Nearly half of babies have a flat skull spot

Close to half of 2-month-olds have a flat spot on the back of their heads, according to a new Canadian study that suggests changes in parents' habits may be a cause.

Although not thought to be medically dangerous, the flattened head shape can become permanent, researchers said, which can have psychological implications for kids as they grow up.

"This is super common," said Dr. Lisa Stellwagen, a neonatologist from the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Prior studies suggested that anywhere from 3 percent to 61 percent of babies have a flat spot on their head. REUTERS

Second-term tech plan for 'smarter' US government

Technology. Obama is naming 43 people to build momentum for streamlining the government.

President Barack Obama said he's devoting part of his second term to improving government efficiency and is putting his new budget director, Sylvia Burwell, in charge of the effort.

"We're operating under severe fiscal constraints," Obama said at the White House after a Cabinet meeting yesterday. "It makes sense for us to be able to redesign government."

The goal, he said, is "making sure that we're delivering services better, faster and more efficiently" while reducing waste and saving taxpayer money.

In his first term, Obama said the government identified more than $2.5 billion in savings by ending overlapping programs and improving efficiency. Obama selected 18 Presidential Innovation Fellows, many of them from California's Silicon Valley, to help streamline government operations though better use of computer technology.

The result was improved use of government data and Internet and mobile applications that, for example, allowed disaster victims to sign up for government benefits more quickly. In another area, technology experts created ways to open government statistics for easier use by the public, according to the White House. BLOOMBERG

New study

One in four injured youth owns a gun

Close to one-quarter of teenagers and young adults treated for assault injuries in a Michigan emergency room reported owning or carrying a gun, according to a new study.

Most of those weapons were obtained illegally and 22 percent of young gun owners said they had an automatic or semiautomatic firearm. REUTERS

Murder trial. State seeks to halt animated Martin re-enactment

Prosecutors asked a Florida judge yesterday to block the jury in the George Zimmerman trial from seeing an animated re-enactment of the shooting of unarmed black teenager Trayvon Martin, saying the video distorts the events of that fatal encounter.

State prosecutors argued that the video fails to show the Kel Tec 9mm pistol that Zimmerman used to shoot Martin. REUTERS

Jason Collins' ex-fiancee speaks out

In April, Jason Collins was the first major athlete to come out as gay in an op-ed in Sports Illustrated. He wrote, "I'm a 34-year-old NBA center. I'm black. And I'm gay. I didn't set out to be the first openly gay athlete playing in a major American team sport. But since I am, I'm happy to start the conversation."

The world was shocked, but perhaps no one more so than his former fiancee, Carolyn Moos. "A month before I was set to marry the man I loved, he called off the wedding. I had no idea why. He and I had been together for eight years. We had planned to have children, build a family. Nearly four years later, I got my answer. ... Jason told me he's gay over the phone on a Monday morning in April, the same day the magazine hit newsstands. However, he didn't mention the article — that came as a surprise when I heard about it from a friend," she told the latest issue of Cosmopolitan.

And even though Moos claims she's happy for Collins and thinks he is very brave, she is still angry at his deception. "I empathize with Jason and support him. But at the same time, I remain deeply hurt by him. I wish he could have been honest with me years ago. I feel like there are two Jasons now — the man I fell in love with and the man I'm trying so hard to understand."

Chris Pratt quits buying six packs, gets a six-pack

Chris Pratt, "Parks and Recreation" star and husband to Anna Faris, posted this smoking hot selfie on his Instagram account recently — and it will make us all want to give up beer. Almost.

"Six months no beer. #GOTG Kinda douchey to post this but my brother made me," he wrote.

The actor is getting in shape to be the lead in Marvel Studio's big-screen adaptation of "Guardians of the Galaxy," as astronaut Peter Quill.

I have a feeling that just giving up beer alone will not give you six-pack abs like that but still — hubba hubba.

Victoria Beckham weighs in on working mother debate

Anne-Marie Slaughter and Sheryl Sandberg have been joined by a new big name weighing in on the motherhood versus career debate: Victoria Beckham.

"When you are successful, the hardest thing is maintaining that level of success, so you work harder to maintain what you have achieved," the fashion designer and former pop star tells Vogue China. "It's a huge juggling act, when you are a working mother and looking after your family. Millions and millions of women around the world are doing this every day, but it's not easy and, yes, you feel guilty every time you walk out of the door to go to work."

Cities picking up the slack

Bruce Katz and Jennifer Bradley's new book focuses on cities.
RALPH ALSWANG

We all know the system is broken, but maybe instead of hoping in vain that election after election will fix it, we just need to look to a different system.

That's the argument made by Bruce Katz and Jennifer Bradley in "The Metropolitan Revolution," a new book that studies the ways in which cities and their surrounding metro areas are taking up the slack left by the partisan gridlock in Washington.

"Cities and metros are now the vanguard of innovation in the United States," says Katz, the founding director of the Brookings Institution's Metropolitan Policy Program. "More and more, cities and suburbs are coming to understand that, particularly with Washington broken, that they really have to make choices together about pretty substantial issues."

Those issues include infrastructure, education, innovation, manufacturing and trade, and in their book Katz and Bradley point to metros across the country that are already taking innovative steps.

New York City enlisted major universities to help bolster its tech economy for the future; Denver forged a partnership between the city and its surrounding suburbs rather than pitting them against one another; and Houston has chosen to view its immigrant community as an asset rather than a drain on public coffers.

Katz wants the book to inspire other cities.

"The reality is pretty stark in terms of the challenges that cities and metros face and the fact that the federal government has left the building," he says.

"I think the metropolitan revolution is what this century demands."

Soul singer has big plans

Music. South African Simphiwe Dana hopes to make a splash stateside.

Wednesday, 8 p.m.
World Cafe Live Upstairs
3025 Walnut St.
$18-$20, 215-222-1400
www.worldcafelive.com

It's best not to call the forthcoming record by South African soul singer Simphiwe Dana a cover album.

"I would rather call it a reinterpretation of the songs, or a reimagining," says Dana of the album, which doesn't have a title or release date yet. "They do not sound like how you know them — they're sung in my own way."

Dana, who is set to perform Wednesday night at World Cafe Live, has recorded tracks by American and African artists ranging from Ray Charles to Letta Mbulu with producer Om'Mas Keith, perhaps best known for his Grammy-winning work with Frank Ocean.

"He loves the rawness of my voice; he finds that quite intriguing," she says.

So does much of the world. Dana burst on the Afro-soul scene with her 2005 debut, "Zandisile." The work heralded the arrival of a sparkling talent whose luxurious phrasing made her a star on multiple continents. She's been called the Erykah Badu of South Africa, and now, she's setting her sights on the U.S. She made her stateside debut at last week's Essence Festival in New Orleans.

But politicians beware: Dana is a vocal critic of the South African political scene and she has her eye on the U.S., too, beginning with President Obama. "The Palestinians are not happy with him, and he basically has a concentration camp at Guantanamo Bay," she says.

As for her World Cafe Live show, she plans to make an impact. "I'm hoping audiences will be impressed enough so that the promoters will take notice and bring me back. I'm hoping I'll be more or less a regular feature in the U.S. from now on."

Check out our latest intel on what makes Sin City such an unforgettable spot. FODOR'S

Serious shut-eye

Savvy stays

The current trend in the hotel world is reinventing an existing venue; in other words, what's old is new again. One property getting serious buzz among in-the-know locals and visitors alike: Nobu Hotel. This extension of the famed sushi empire, located in the Centurion Tower in sprawling Caesars Palace, is a 181-room zen Asian oasis featuring round-the-clock room service from a menu created by star chef Nobu Matsuhisa himself. Other guest perks include VIP access to the restaurant — the largest of Nobu's worldwide locations — as well as to the ever-hip Pure Nightclub.

Whether you're going for a girls' getaway, spa retreat or casino-and-cocktails sojourn, Las Vegas is an over-the-top destination that always delivers. / GETTY IMAGES

Fab food

Dinner, Vegas style

The Cosmopolitan has raised the bar — not just for luxe accommodations and happening nightlife, but also for the city's culinary scene. Foodies flock to the hotel's mouthwatering restaurants helmed by world-class chefs. At the Cosmopolitan, you'll find Chinese-Mexican fusion at China Poblano, run by El Bulli alum Jose Andres (don't miss the signature salt-air margaritas), the sleek STK steakhouse and the NYC Greek import Estiatorio Milos.

PLUS

Post-dinner

Indulge in a timeless Vegas experience: a Cirque du Soleil show. There are eight shows, including the brand new "Michael Jackson ONE," now open at Mandalay Bay. Other new arrivals include "Zarkana" at the ARIA, which follows the story of a magical ringmaster visiting a haunted theater, and the adults-only "Absinthe" at Caesars Palace.

Something different

Off-the-Strip secrets

While the Strip will always anchor the nonstop action in Las Vegas, the city's downtown has enjoyed a revival in recent years, anchored by the Fremont Street Experience, an outdoor concert space, as well as a burgeoning arts and culture scene. Two recently opened attractions that evoke the spirit of vintage Vegas: the Neon Museum, which opened its extended campus in October and houses more than 150 historic neon signs; and the three-story Mob Museum, which opened last year and highlights the history of organized crime across America. The Mob Museum boasts interactive exhibits and a look at the wiseguys Vegas has attracted over the years. The squeamish can opt out of a gallery of mob hits.

Who needs a filter when the sunset looks like this? / SUBLIME SAMANA HOTEL & RESIDENCES

School's officially out for summer, which means local vacation spots will be swarming. In search of a more serene getaway? Head south — way south — to the beautiful beaches of the Dominican Republic. The cities of Punta Cana and Puerta Plata have long been the country's top tourist destinations, but popularity comes with a price: crowds. On Hispaniola's Atlantic coast, far away from the hustle and bustle, the Samana Peninsula offers visitors miles of untouched beaches and a true taste of island culture.

Sublime Samana Resort and Residences (www.sublimesamana.com) is located just a 20-minute ride from El Catey airport, nestled quietly between the mountains and the coastline, providing a spectacular view in all directions. The province is one of the most unspoiled natural habitats of the Caribbean. The brochure pictures of endless palm trees and empty shores along the Samana are legit. crystal clear turquoise waters, sharing your swim only with the occasional fish or a pod of dolphins.

For those who prefer slightly calmer seas, two large pools bookend the property. Or, camp out in a private palapa, soak up some Dominican sun and simply slip into one of the adjacent plunge pools, gracefully interwoven through the center of the resort just a few steps from your front door.

A short stroll through soft white sand leads guests to a rustic spa, which offers visitors a variety of treatments in open-air cabins, surrounded by the scents and sounds of Atlantic waves crashing on the shore. After a relaxing ritual, refuel alfresco at the Beachside Grill, open for breakfast and lunch.

The collection of 20 suites and villas feature a variety of rooms sized for two, four or more. Each is appointed with floor-to-ceiling windows, full dining rooms, fully equipped kitchens and private balconies, many with hot tubs. Large groups can take up residence in one of four casitas — two- or three-bedroom villas complete with a garden or ocean view. Need something? Just ask the onsite manager, Paula. From restaurant recommendations to fresh towels, she can get anything and everything. Mention casually that your flip-flops didn't make it into your luggage and a pair will suddenly materialize in your closet.

But don't get so comfy that you miss the chance to explore the treasures that the area has to offer offsite.

Accompany executive chef Christian Matias Baez on a trip to the local fish market (read: the beach where fishing boats come ashore). Select your favorite seafood — you'll never find it so fresh. Back on the property, assist the chef in preparing your meal, all while learning about local ingredients and techniques for getting the most flavor from your food. Then, of course, enjoy the fruits of your labor!

Hike or horseback through the rain forest that surrounds the Sierra Samana mountain range to the Salto de Limon waterfalls. See the local flora and fauna that grow abundantly before reaching the falls that cascade down 180 feet into a freshwater pool, perfect for cooling off after the trek.

In the winter months, Samana Bay is a spawning ground for humpback whales. Watch these wondrous animals as they sing love songs and make flying leaps through the air in attempts to woo their partners, then escort their newborn calves into the deep blue sea.

Crying over spilled milk, then laughing about it

Books. One dad's pictures of his sons helped him cope with parenting.

Greg Pembroke's son was having a meltdown in a museum. Over cheese. A piece of cheese, torn down the middle.

"My oldest son just started to wail in the middle of this museum," he remembers. "I'm like, 'Well, this is so over the top.'"

The Rochester, N.Y., dad of two snapped a pic of his son's tear-strewn face, posting it to Facebook in an album that became a blog that spawned a book.

The creator of the Reasons My Son Is Crying Tumblr blog, which recently went viral, is now penning the book. Parents from all over the world flooded him with submissions of their bawling babies, from New Jersey kids tumbling out of a hammock to a Chinese baby upset with his Superman outfit. The 33-year-old dad says posting pictures can be parenting therapy.

What was it like to have pictures of your kids go viral?
It was so crazy. After [it appeared on Reddit], it started to spread so quickly. … It's a little overwhelming initially, but the feedback was so overwhelmingly positive. … I think someone has visited my blog from every country in the world, except maybe North Korea. You can't win them all.

Why do you think this has struck such a chord?
In general, the people that get it are people [who] have normal, healthy toddlers, who have been around kids. This is a phase they go through. It's going to happen. …. Kids are going to cry. You can either pull your hair out, or you can say, "This is a little bit ridiculous."

How has this helped you in your own parenting?
It really does help you see the humor side. This is a stage in childhood development, a stage in parenting. I know right now that I'm going to miss this when they're out of it, and I think it's a reminder to me to just kind of laugh about the insanity. It's not always going to be this way. When they get older, they're going to have problems that aren't always as easily laughed off, and I think then I'm going to be a bit nostalgic.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. This may not be one of your better days for managing resources, either yours or other people's. Don't take on any fiscal responsibilities.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. If someone thinks you're acting self-serving, this person might place obstacles in your path just to trip you up.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Any involvement that has strong elements of risk or speculation would be best avoided today.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Even though you're apt to be ambitious and industrious, you might do things the hard way, which will end up being counterproductive.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20. It will take some exceptionally shrewd maneuvering on your part to come out on top in a business matter.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Even though you try to promote cooperation, you might still run into someone who resists all such attempts.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. It isn't likely that you'll get others to have faith in your ideas if you show doubt about them yourself. Have confidence or go home.

Smokers the butt of unfair prejudice

Re: 'What's the real cost of lighting up?' (Metro, July 8) I am a 70-year-old smoker, and my smoking never cost my work or insurance a penny. I'm still working full time and see a lot of people wasting more time talking to each other than smoking. I still get the best productivity reviews. Instead of going after smokers, they should go after drinkers that miss more days of work than smokers and also cost a lot of grief to their families and to the insurance companies. Smokers never hurt anyone.

SILVIA TORRE, VIA EMAIL

First, I will say I am a smoker. As far as the cost to an employer for smokers, I think people need to get off their high horses and leave us alone. I am entitled to a 15-minute break in the morning and a half-hour lunch break. I choose to eat my lunch at my desk. I didn't spend 20 minutes to a half-hour on a personal call or email to one of my children or spend time talking non-work-related things. Don't just assume because a smoking employee goes out for a smoke that they are less productive than the non-smoking employee.

76ers

Hello there

Wyatt stars for Sixers

Well, the Sixers lost their Orlando Pro Summer League opener to the Magic, 96-75. The good news is that former Temple standout Khalif Wyatt poured in a game-high 25 points for the Sixers. Fellow rookie Michael Carter-Williams chipped in 13 points.

BLAME ED SNIDER, CHAIRMAN OF THE BORED

The Voice of Philly Sports

ANGELO CATALDI

A filmmaker approached me and requested my participation in a documentary honoring the brilliance of Flyers chairman Ed Snider. At first, I thought it was a joke. It wasn't. After 38 consecutive seasons without a Stanley Cup, Snider still inspires gushing tributes.

The timing of this invitation was puzzling because it came during the Stanley Cup Final, at the conclusion of a playoff season in which the Flyers didn't participate. I tried to make that seemingly obvious point in my polite email response, but it was not compelling enough to merit a reply.

Of course, if you've been paying any attention to the Flyers in the past few weeks, you know why it is absurd to be collecting platitudes for an 80-year-old man who has done far more harm than good in Philadelphia over the past two decades. Not only has our hockey team failed repeatedly to recapture the glory of its two Cups in the 1970s, but Snider also found time in his busy schedule to dismantle the Sixers.

After the chairman had stupidly pushed out Sixers president Pat Croce at the peak of the team's popularity in 2001 and then watched the franchise fade into oblivion, he turned his attention back to his first love, a Flyers team that has been a victim of his jarring mood swings for a generation.

Snider remains a legend, especially among those who were alive the last time the Flyers won it all, in 1975. He remains popular to most fans because, like them, he wants to win so badly. He'll make any move and spend any amount of money in pursuit of his elusive goal. No owner has ever tried harder to win than Ed Snider.

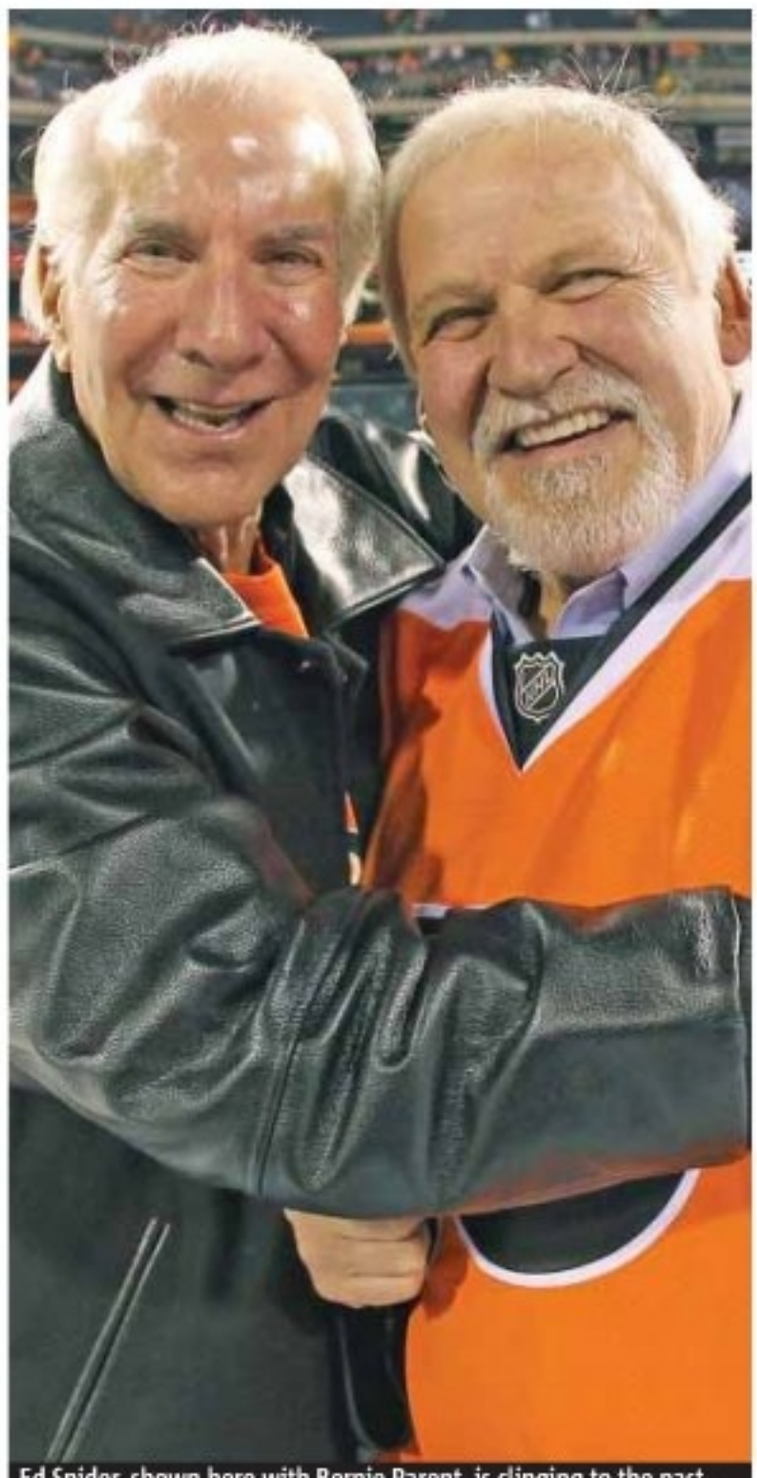
Cataldi on Ed Snider

Snider no longer understands how much harm he is doing.

But the raw emotions of the boss are strangling the Flyers now. In the past two weeks, the team has written off $25 million in amnesty buyouts for Ilya Bryzgalov and Danny Briere, paid $22 million for a 35-year-old defenseman (Mark Streit), paid $22 million for a 14-year declining veteran (Vinny Lecavalier) and signed Claude Giroux — after a bad season — to a $66 million extension. That's a total of $135 million — and the Flyers still stink.

The worst part is, Snider no longer understands how much harm he is doing. He admitted last week that the Bryzgalov signing was "a mistake," but quickly added that he doesn't make the personnel decisions. Hello! His public edicts led to the Bryzgalov fiasco.

All the Cup-less seasons are the fault of Snider. If no one else wants to say it, I will. He has failed, spectacularly. And that's why you won't find me in that documentary.



Ed Snider, shown here with Bernie Parent, is clinging to the past. The reality is he hasn't helped the Flyers since 1975. / GETTY IMAGES

Opinion: End of road for Charlie Manuel in Philly

Ruben Amaro Jr. is on record saying the current home stand will determine whether he buys or sells at the July 31 trade deadline. Then, doesn't it make sense that the next week should decide what happens to manager Charlie Manuel?

Manuel is having a terrible year, both in managing the personalities in his clubhouse and in deploying those same people strategically. Just last week, Domonic Brown got thrown out at third after an error because he wasn't running hard. Who gets the blame? Yes, Brown, but also the manager. Manuel is the one who has allowed this lax, player-friendly approach for years.

Manuel never sees his own shortcomings. Last week, he kept harping on the holes in Amaro's roster. At one point, he said he still had John Lannan in the rotation because "I'm trying to think who we have who's better than him." Later, he said the Phils were inconsistent because "who we got is what we've got to use."

The longer Amaro waits, the harder he makes it for Ryne Sandberg, who is experiencing his own problems as the third-base coach. When Lannan was thrown out at the plate after trying to score from first on a double, fans began to question Sandberg's intelligence. The truth is, Sandberg is merely trying to manufacture runs for the struggling offense.

If Manuel finishes the season in the dugout, it will be because Amaro feels more of a sense of duty to the lovable skipper than to the team. The decision to sell — which seems inevitable — will require more than trading a few big stars for young prospects. It should also signal the end to the tenure of the most overrated manager in Phillies history, Charlie Manuel. ANGELO CATALDI

Idle thoughts

Other items Cataldi wanted to get off his chest:

- Doug Collins resigned as Sixers coach on April 18. The team still has no replacement. GM Sam Hinkie said he had nothing new to report because he was spending his time with the young players. Hmm. Shouldn't the next coach be doing that, too?
- Vezina Trophy winner Sergei Bobrovsky agreed with Ilya Bryzgalov that Philly fans are too demanding. OK, that's one way to look at it. Here's another: Russian goaltenders are soft — at least the ones who have played here.

Bynum meets with Cavaliers

Andrew Bynum met with the Cleveland Cavaliers yesterday, according to ESPN.

Bynum met with team officials at a suburban facility. The Cavaliers are reportedly interested in signing the center to a one-year deal.

Bynum came to Philadelphia last off-season as the franchise savior, then never suited up. Dallas is also interested in Bynum. METRO

NFL

McNabb did puke in Bowl

One former teammate said that Donovan McNabb did puke in Super Bowl XXXIX.

Former Eagles cornerback Lito Sheppard told 94WIP that McNabb made a "subtle" vomit as he was walking to the line of scrimmage. The two played together from 2002-2008.

McNabb threw three TDs in that game, but accounted for three interceptions. METRO

MLB

Brown not in HR Derby

Domonic Brown won't compete in next week's All-Star Home Run Derby.

Team captain David Wright chose Bryce Harper, Carlos Gonzalez and Michael Cuddyer to represent the NL. For the AL, it will be Prince Fielder, Chris Davis and a pick to be named later. Robinson Cano is the AL captain.

The derby is July 15 at the Mets' Citi Field. METRO

Howard needs surgery, out for 6-8 weeks

MLB. The Big Piece will go under the knife to repair a torn meniscus.

Ryan Howard will go under the knife. He has a meniscus tear in his left knee, and he'll have surgery soon. He'll be on the shelf for 6 to 8 weeks.

"I'm encouraged," GM Ruben Amaro said. "It could have been more significant. We know it's treatable."

Amaro compared Howard's knee injury to that of backup catcher Erik Kratz, who had surgery June 12 and might return this weekend. The best case scenario has Howard back on the field in September.

Don't expect the organization to rush the hulking slugger.

"We can only speculate how long it will take to get him to rehab," Amaro said. "We'll shoot for the conservative one."

ED CONDRAN

Howard will need surgery and miss 6 to 8 weeks.
